

Radosław Rybkowski

The National University of the USA: A Dream Never Fulfilled

BIO

Holds Polish terminal degree (doctor habilitatus) in Social Science (degree granted by the Faculty of International and Political Studies in 2013; the first in Social Science in the history of the Faculty); holds Ph.D. in Literature (the Jagiellonian University, 2000); graduated at the Institute of Polish Philology in 1995, specializing in Theatre Studies. Since January 2016 he has been the member of the Polish Accreditation Committee (Social and Legal Science). He is a Director of the Institute of American Studies and Polish Diaspora at Jagiellonian University. In his research he focuses on the history of American theatre, higher education policy and politics and culture interplay in the USA.

